5.6 Details of student counseling and career guidance.

Student Counseling Centre is established in college to build confidence of students. The students are generally found under parental and social burden. It leads to the confusion in decision making. Consequentially, students work hard only to appear for the examination. In a way student become exam oriented rather than knowledge.

Such confusion state of mind makes it difficult to them to choose right career options. The whole process becomes strenuous and burdening.

The student Counseling Centre aims to eradicate the stress and tension and make learning an enjoyable process. The students are instructed to place their problems in written in suggestion box at the end of every month. The problems are handed over to the counselors. The counselors discuss the problems either in common hall or individually.

Aims and objectives:

1. To provide a platform to the students to express themselves.
2. To develop the decision making power and healthy competition among the students.
3. To make students free from stress and tension which lead to suicide, depression or inactiveness by providing individual counseling and inspiring them by motivational speeches.
